ELEVEN SAVED IN REST HOME FIRE

They're Not Too Busy To Help Out

Good Fellows Aid Santa Despite Own Chores

This is the season to be jolly—and busy. Last night the downtown area was crowded with shoppers, Santa was in to have his beard curled, and there is an electric excitement in the air.

A couple Good Fellows sat down and wrote checks for the Good Fellow fund. So today the drive is $19 closer to its $3,500 goal.

With the $10 the total moves up to $634 which leaves us $2,866 to go. We have just three weeks to meet the goal.

This morning's mail had a check for $5 from the Progressive Study club and another $5 from the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Fruit Belt Post No. 1137.

LATEST DONORS
Both of today's Good Fellows are regular members of this club which for over three decades has made Christmas a little brighter for those who have no cause to look forward to the happiest time of the year. The Progressive Study club is composed of a group of St. Joseph women and we think that they enjoy being together and doing nice things for the community.

It used to be known as the Progressive Child Study club and we venture a guess that when the children grew up and out of their problems the ladies decided to continue their studies and discussions. At any rate they have continued to talk about the Good Fellow fund as their contribution shows.

The VFW boys are well aware of how chilly Christmas can be because they do a lot of charitable acts so we feel that their donation is a double endorsement of the Good Fellow fund.

This weekend is a good time to heed Postmaster Bob McMullen's plea to get those Christmas cards out. He also says: "Use the zip code."

This weekend would be a good time to get a note off to the Good Fellow fund too.

Here's our zip code number: 49085.

Remember the words of the song: "He's making a list and checking it twice."

Fireman Breaks Back In Plung

Tumbles Off Porch In Blaze Here

A Benton Harbor fireman who fell from a second-story porch while fighting a fire at 372 North Stevens street early this morning is reported in fair condition at Mercy hospital this morning.

The victim is Ronald Colvin, 23, of 320 Brunson avenue, a three-year veteran of the department.

Colvin was injured about 1 a.m. today as firemen were setting up to do battle with a blaze in a vacant house.

The house, owned by Alphonso Spann who lives near-by at 364 North Stevens street, was burning throughout the attic when firemen arrived.

The house was extensively damaged by the flames. What started the fire is not known, (See back page, sec. 1, col. 1)

Injured at fire

Colvin was on the porch near where the fire started when a railing gave way as he reached out for a hose, according to fellow firemen. They said Colvin fell about 12 feet, landing on his back. Aidmen from Action Ambulance service took him to the hospital.

V-M Employees Reject Union By Two To One

V-M Corporation employees yesterday rejected collective bargaining representation by the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers by a vote of 603 to 365. The election marked the fourth major effort in 13 years a union has attempted but failed to win bargaining rights for the company's 1,100 employees. The National Labor Relations Board conducted the election, held in the V-M plants yesterday, according to union spokesmen. Various unions have made unsuccessful major attempts to organize the local plant, the world's largest manufacturer of record changers, in three prior years: 1953, 1954 and 1961. In addition, there have been other efforts that failed to reach a vote, or efforts, all of which failed, to organize segments of the firm's employees.

Important Figure At H. Of D.

Widow Of Late Maestro Chic Bell

Mrs. Chic (Edith) Bell, one of the last remaining pillars of the House of David, died Friday at 6:45 p.m. at Mercy hospital. She was 75 years old.

Mrs. Bell was lesser known than her husband, the famed House of David maestro who died in 1964. But she wielded more influence in colony affairs.

She was an original member of the colony founded in 1903 by King Ben and held positions of increasing authority from advisory board member in 1907 to pillar and corresponding secretary.

Although remaining financially strong, the sect's membership has withered from a peak of more than 1,000 to about 100. The communal way of life does not appeal to youth in times of prosperity and control of the House of David is vested in dwindling ranks of elders.

She entered the hospital Wednesday, ill with cancer. Followers of the religious cult, who believe in the millennium with each person his own temple, had maintained firm hope the patient, friendly leader would return to their midst.

DEATH IS SHOCK
Mrs. Bell's death was a shock to colony members who had long relied on her for counsel and management in the varied enterprises of the colony.

Born March 3, 1899, in Colorado, Mrs. Bell joined the House of David with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McElmire. Her loyalty remained steadfast through scandalous litigation, schism and post-war decline in vitality.

A federal court awarded dissident former members a $15,000 judgment after charges of immorality had been pressed against King Ben. He disappeared about 1923 amid rumors he had fled to Australia. A state police raid in 1926 found him living in a secret apartment at the colony.

After King Ben's death, leadership of the House of David passed to Judge H.T. Dewhurst who then became involved in a battle for control with Queen Mary, wife of King Ben.

Queen Mary took some 200 followers to form the "Israelite City of David," just east of the original colony on Britain avenue in Benton township.

Outsiders Blamed In 'Cal' Revolt

Crackdown Called For By Reagan

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — University of California administrators negotiated with student leaders today in the current strife over Navy recruitment on the Berkeley campus.

Gov.-elect Ronald Reagan advised insurgent students to "get out" and legislators demanded action against some faculty members.

Chancellor Roger W. Heyns blamed the deliberate infractions of outsiders for the classroom boycott at the 27,000-student campus by an unknown number of students and teaching assistants.

NEGOTIATIONS
Heyns, who said the strike of classes appeared to have only limited effectiveness, declared that negotiations to end the campus upheaval would involve faculty and students only.

The disruption began Wednesday in the Student Union building during a protest against a Navy recruiting table. Protesters tried to set up a rival table, fighting started and police were called.

Six nonstudents and four students were arrested. A strike of classes was called, and the Teachers Assistants' Union voted support of demands for approval of nonstudent activities on the campus.

Knots of students were all over the campus Friday as a dreary drizzle fell. Pickets with water-blurred signs marched at campus gates.

SAVIO ON SCENE
Among those demanding a classroom boycott is Mario Savio, a leader of the Berkeley campus political freedom demonstrations in 1964, which resulted in the arrest of 700 persons.

Savio, 23, no longer a student, was among the 10 arrested Wednesday. Savio's application for readmission earlier this year was turned down, the university said, because it was too late.

Heyns refused to negotiate the crisis Friday with Savio, only nonstudent on a seven-man negotiating committee. At one point, a strike leader, Ira Rusk, told a crowd, "Heyns had better accept the nonstudent (Savio) we have sent."

It was not possible to tell how effective the boycott was. A heavy rain kept some students away for two days. A nose count (See back page, sec. 1, col. 5)

Unit Near Decatur Destroyed

Patients Are Evacuated By Owner, Nurses

By BILL HAMILTON
Paw Paw Bureau
DECATUR—Eleven elderly patients were evacuated safely this morning before fire leveled the Riley rest home four miles west of here on 84th avenue.

Fire Chief Myron Southworth said when Decatur firemen arrived, owner A. Z. Riley and two nurses had gotten the 11 patients out of the flaming building and they were standing about in night clothes in 10-degree temperatures.

Firemen loaded the patients in cars and took them to another home, owned by Riley, southwest of Paw Paw.

Erlene Williams, a nurse, smelled smoke and called Rita Overton, another nurse at the rest home. They awoke Riley and the three evacuated the 11 patients from the two floors.

PHONE WON'T WORK
Riley told the fire chief the telephone in the rest home would not work. After getting the patients outdoors he went to a neighbor to call firemen.

Southworth said when Decatur firemen arrived, the attic was ablaze and part of the roof already had fallen in. He said the fire apparently started in the attic of the large 24-story house which was believed to be more than 100 years old.

Only a few pieces of furniture and a medicine chest were saved from the burning rest home.

Decatur firemen, called at 7:30 a.m., called in the Keeler fire department to assist when they arrived at the scene. Firemen from Decatur used three trucks and equipment to fight the blaze and Keeler sent two fire trucks.

Professional Honor For Dr. Cadieux

Dr. Hale W. Cadieux, who began practicing anesthesiology in Benton Harbor during the summer of 1965, has been named a fellow in the American College of Anesthesiologists.

Dr. Cadieux, on the staff at Memorial hospital in St. Joseph, is associated with doctors Dixon Bieri, David Learned and Arthur Haight in their Benton Harbor offices.

Union Election

LANSING (AP) — Eastern Michigan University Maintenance, power plant and custodial employees have voted 133-11 to be represented by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, the union said Friday.

TIME'S RUNNING OUT

Features

Thar She Blows

There's nothing like a spirited school fight to wake up the neighborhood's adrenalin.

We've had good ones in our area within recent years.

St. Joe teed off the first ball in 1951 over the simple argument of whether one grade school teacher should be retained. The board refused to bow to demands to renew her contract and before the dust had settled on that doneybrook two years later the then superintendent had been fired by buying up his contract, the high school principal had quit and new faces replaced the old timers on the board.

The Chikaming district, now part of an expanded River Valley combination, not too many years later was good for a headline almost weekly. On the surface the bone of contention was the superintendent's management of the operation. Underneath lay a collision which often erupts spontaneously when new residents begin to populate an older area in sizeable numbers. Eventually the Chikaming board had some replacements and the superintendent, by invitation, departed for another school.

Between the two areas is Bridgman where things have simmered in lively fashion since the spirited battle staged to keep that system from shaping up the BBS area proposal in the second half of the 1950s. Baroda and Stevensville subsequently joined hands to create the Lakeshore district.

The continued maintenance of Bridgman as a small, independent district has been punctuated by a running dispute on the school's administration. This has led to a somewhat brief tenure in board membership and upper echelon management.

This fractious condition exploded like an H bomb earlier this week when by a 4-3 vote the school board called for the immediate firing of the high school principal.

The reason given by the majority, if nothing else, was frank. Either the principal goes or a potential request for five to seven mills in extra taxes for operating purposes might fail at the polls this spring because of opposition from influential persons to the educator.

Considering the somewhat close calls the district has had on millage propositions in recent years, this persona non grata argument, whatever its educational merit may be, does have a practical bearing.

The majority's reasoning against the principal is that he went against a written policy statement adopted a few years ago by the board and after sufficient warning refused to return within the guide lines' perimeter.

In earlier times all school boards set policy by informal discussion between themselves and their hired managers. This prevails in most areas, but lately a tendency has arisen to lay down a written master plan for the superintendent and his subordinates to follow.

Either system to be workable must strike the happy medium of establishing where policy leaves off and its implementation begins. Stated in another way, it is the balance between a group of laymen pondering where a pencil sharpener should be located or a superintendent running the show out of his hip pocket with the board being reduced to a rubber stamp.

The latter is the root cause in many areas of schools finding themselves in deep seated financial difficulty.

The former, to a large extent, accounts for the hubbub rocking the University of California's Berkeley campus.

The Bridgman situation, from this distance, seems to embody some of each.

We question the ability of all high school students to equip themselves mentally under the principal's free wheeling ideas on study and attendance routines.

On the other hand, what can a lay board know about using bells or a different signal as the best means for changing classes?

It is unfortunate the lines between policy making and administration became so tangled and the quicker some sober effort to unsnarl the reins is made the better.

The Bridgman situation is one made to order for the MEA and the other professionals to start swinging an axe, or for a teachers' union to offer its services.

New Health Peril

The laser beam is invading industry. Thousands of lasers are now employed in manufacturing plants and research laboratories. As a tool, the laser appears to be one of the brightest (no pun intended) discoveries to find its way into a machine shop.

Versatile and extremely powerful, the laser can drill tiny holes in diamond dies; weld, cut and machine metal to fine tolerances, and make itself useful in the photographic and communications fields.

Some of those most familiar with its work are worried about the proliferation of the laser throughout industrial plants and other places where inexpert hands might be in control. The laser is dangerous.

Several laser experts, including two physicians, at Western Electric's Buffalo, N.Y., plant urge the adoption of a national safety code. They foresee the possibility of similar health hazards being introduced by the laser that existed in the days when the full dangers of excessive use of X-ray and radium dials were not understood.

There are several types of laser radiation, each with its own kind of danger. The common ground, of course, is that they all emit intense rays of light. Some of this light is visible, some is in the form of infrared, or invisible, rays.

Serious skin burns may result from contact with the laser beam, and even momentary exposure to the eyes may cause blindness. Eyes may also be damaged by reflected light from laser beams, and while there are certain glasses which will protect the eyes, none of them is capable of stopping all laser wave lengths.

As a tool, the laser has much to offer industry. As a weapon it is also a potent force. The trick is to harness its constructive power without suffering from its destructive forces. A national study to thoroughly reveal the character of this widely misunderstood innovation would be desirable.

December

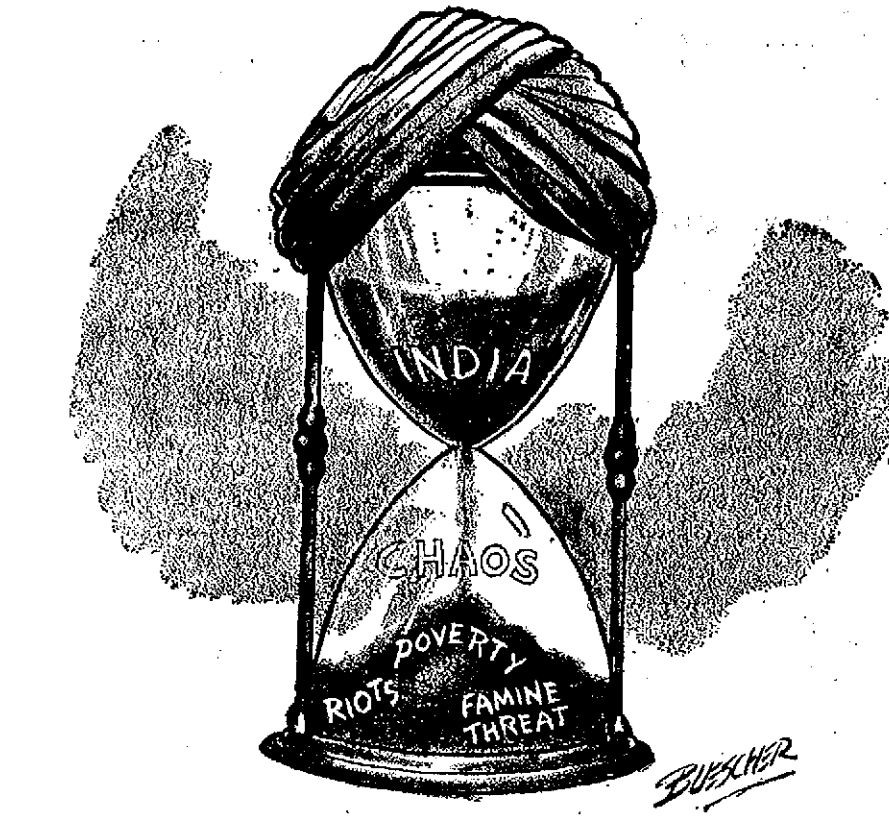

December ordinarily does not inspire warm encomiums from most people nor does it, ordinarily, deserve them. As a rule, it is a surly month, likely to bring a long succession of raw days, and cold rain and marrow-chilling winds. The prospect pleases only the most hardy.

There may be a better side to December sometimes, though. Even a fair December day, it is true, is not to be compared to October's offerings. But it does have its points.

Take a bright December morning. It comes, normally, after a crisp night, so there is a coating of frost on the fields before the sun gets above the horizon. Then, as the warmth gets in its work, mist rises from the valleys. The air is cool and good to breathe. It is a good beginning for a day, in town or country, and it puts zest in a man with work to do.

Or take a clear December evening. Then the western heavens glow, as the sun goes down, with a smoky light deeper and richer than the translucent hues of early autumn. Bare branches stand out black against the sky. And when the brief afterglow has gone, the stars shine out in fiery brilliance against the nightblue velvet overhead.

The debit side of December's ledger is dark with entries. But there is also a credit side for those who look.

AWAIT JAP REPLY TO FDR QUESTION

—25 Years Ago—

President Roosevelt has posed a question for Japan which may hasten a final showdown in the Pacific or bring about an armed truce that would save Thailand, temporarily at least, from becoming a Far Eastern battlefield. Since the president's question calls for a forthright explanation of Japan's immediate intent, informed diplomatic quarters in Washington, believe that it will bring the Pacific crisis to a head within the week.

The question in which Mr. Roosevelt said he expected Tokyo to answer promptly was: Why are Japanese troops in French Indo-China massing along Thailand's frontier and what is their future intent?

You're Telling Me!

By HOYT KING

The annual Munich Oktoberfest has opened, as usual, with a bang as well as a bang — the world's greatest beer-drinking festival got officially underway with the ceremonial tapping of the first barrel.

More than four million people are expected during the 16-day program of what must, unquestionably, be the world's top elbow-bending Olympics.

If, as expected, more than a million gallons of brew will be downed, it's no wonder the Oktoberfest makes such a big splash.

It's also estimated Muenchens and visitors will consume 700,000 pork sausages and some 350,000 fried chickens. If the celebrants already haven't a thirst, that should certainly work up a dandy.

Meanwhile, we see where an Indonesian is acquiring tigers to train as guards of his plantation. Watch dogs — but of a far different stripe!

On reading that doctors say cheerful folks are more disease-resistant than glum ones, Reothie the Smoothie asks if this is just a case of the surly bird getting the germ?

Letters To The Editor

Editor, The Herald-Press:

WINDOWS OF GOLD

Every man has a mountain to climb, a bridge to cross, a river to wade, a cross to bear and a valley in which to rest. This can be best described in a poem by Helen Steiner Rice, which I have transcribed in a prosaic, story form:

"There is a legend that has been told of a boy who searched, for windows of gold; the beautiful windows he saw far away when he looked into the valley, at sunrise each day, and he yearned to go down to the valley below but, he lived on a mountain, all covered with snow and he knew it would be a difficult trek; but that was a journey he wanted to make.

"So he planned by day and he dreamed by night of how he could reach the Great Shining Light, and one golden morning when dawn broke through, and the valley sparkled, with diamonds of dew, he started to climb; to climb down the mountain side with the windows of gold as his goal and his guide. He travelled all day, and weary and worn, with bleeding feet, and clothes that were torn, he entered the peaceful valley town just as the golden sun went down.

"But he seemed to have lost his guiding light. The windows were dark that had once been bright. And hungry and tired and lonely and cold, he cried, 'Won't you show me the windows of gold?' And a kind hand touched him and said; 'Behold, high on the mountain are the windows of gold, for the sun, going down in a great golden ball had burnished the windows on his cabin so small.

"And the Kingdom of Gold with its Great Shining Light, like the Golden Windows that shown so bright, is a not far distant place. Somewhere it's as close to you as an evening prayer, and the search for God will end and begin, when you look for Him and find Him within."

Life in Vienna under the Hapsburgs wasn't all it was cut out to be in those old-fashioned Schubert operettas, but at Court there was action and ostentation aplenty. In her beguiling book, "The Mistresses," Betty Kellen states that, "the Hapsburgs were continually bursting into the limelight in a mad explosion of Mitzi's, Fritzie's, family jewels, furious archduchesses, irate inkeepers, faithful valets, and bad checks." An assassin at Sarajevo in 1914 put an end to that sort of thing forever.

They tell a legend in Japan about a traveler, camping in an unfamiliar spot in the plains, who saw a strange object in the distance. It took the shape of a terrible monster. Cautiously advancing, however, the traveler discovered it was only a man, and much of his terror evaporated. Then he ventured still closer and found that the "terrible monster" he had dreaded was not only a man like himself — but it was his own brother!

speaking of YOUR HEALTH

By Lester L. Coleman, M. D.

Tests for pregnancy have been brilliantly developed to the point of such rapidity that guesswork is almost unnecessary. At first it took days, and now the time has been reduced to minutes to learn that "father's day" is imminent.

Yet, each new test carried with it some degree of error. False positive results were reported with every method.

No greater error however was ever made than when an 82-year-old woman was found to have a positive urine test for pregnancy. Her pride in her accomplishment did not last very long. Soon the reason for this manmade miracle became apparent.

Dr. Frank Paoletti at the Detroit General Hospital at first thought he was seeing a new star in the East until he explained the reason for this error. Some drugs are known to produce false positive pregnancy tests. In this case the patient had been taking a type of tranquilizer which turned out to be the culprit for this unusual mistake.

The widespread occurrence of syphilis in teenagers and in young adults demands the concentrated efforts of every physician and all public health agencies. Despite educational campaigns, venereal disease has reached a peak even higher than before the discovery of penicillin.

The early recognition of syphilis makes treatment and cure effective.

A new test for syphilis can now be made in the doctor's office within a few minutes and, if positive, immediate treatment can be begun.

The test was devised by Dr. Gino Di Vergilio at the Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons. If the success of these early studies continues, it is expected that a special kit may be devised for the mass testing of people who are far removed from their own physician. Such mass screening for syphilis may accomplish the same remarkable results as the mass screening for tuberculosis.

Every conceivable force in medicine and in education must be employed to once again reduce the number of cases of syphilis that remain undiscovered and untreated and thus leave permanent ruinous after-effects.

Patients with obvious symptoms of a coronary heart attack sometimes fail to show it even in the electrocardiogram. This is not unusual within the first 48 hours.

Because the pain in the chest due to a heart attack may resemble other less severe conditions it is most important to know as quickly as possible if a heart attack did occur.

There are many other tests of the blood that are used, but on occasion none of them seem to give a very definite answer to this urgent question. In the past ten years a "transaminase" test has added important information.

Now, Dr. Louis Cohen and Dr. J. Henry Wilkinson of the Westminster Medical School are using an enzyme test of the blood to help make an earlier and more positive diagnosis of a heart attack. This is another significant contribution to modern medicine.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH — Cathartics and laxatives should be used only at the suggestion of a doctor for any abdominal pain.

These columns are designed to relieve your fears about health through a better understanding of your mind and body. All the hopeful new advances in medicine reported here are known to doctors everywhere.

Your individual medical problems should be handled by your own doctor. He knows you best.

Opening lead — seven of spades.

Let's say you're declarer at three notrump and West leads a spade. When you play low from dummy, East produces the jack, and now, to make the contract, you must let the jack win the trick!

This is not a difficult play, in view of the bidding, since you can still get two spade tricks by means of a finesse. But it is essential to duck the jack to make the hand.

Had you taken the jack with the ace, entered dummy with a club, and finessed the jack of diamonds, West would have won with the queen, played a spade to the king, and another spade back would then have put you out of commission.

Now let's shift seats and imagine you're East defending against three notrump. When your partner leads the seven of spades and dummy plays low, your proper play is to put on the eight, not the jack!

If you do this, declarer must eventually go down regardless of how he plays. He wins the spade with the nine, probably enters dummy with a club, and finesses a diamond. West takes the queen, returns a spade to force out the ace, and the ace of diamonds provides the entry to cash your spades.

By allowing declarer to win the opening spade lead with the nine, you maintain a vital link with West, since he will have a spade to return whenever he re-enters the fray with a diamond. The duck is crucial and eventually pays off.

Note that declarer goes down even if he plays the queen of spades at trick one. In that case all you have to do is resist the impulse to cover the queen with the king, which would permit declarer to duck. Instead you play the eight on the queen and South eventually runs into the same dead end.

There he soon distinguished himself as a lieutenant of Mayor Tom Johnson in the latter's struggle for tax reform and three-cent street car fares. He was appointed city solicitor in 1902, holding that office through re-elections until 1912, becoming mayor from 1912 to 1918. Though President Woodrow Wilson offered him the secretaryship of the Interior in 1913, Baker declined in order to push forward his municipal reforms in Cleveland.

NURSING HOME STARTS $183,000 ADDITION

THREE FAMILIES LEFT HOMELESS: Fire which apparently started near a chimney Friday morning destroyed this two-story concrete block apartment house 1½ miles southeast of Fennville. Mr. and Mrs. Larry Vernon fled with their six-month-old daughter and a son, 2, after they found ceiling of their downstairs apartment on fire. Families not at home when fire started were Mr. and Mrs. Junior Smith and two sons, 8 months and 3 years, and Mr. and Mrs. Amelio Gonzales. Fennville fire and police departments are accepting clothing and household items for burned out families. Firemen were hampered by 10-degree temperatures and winds up to 35 m.p.h. in battling the blaze over two hours. Mrs. Alice Earl, route 2, Fennville, owner of the building, said it was insured for $8,000 with $1,000 on contents. (Prosch-Jensen photo)

IRONY IN HOBDY CASE

B.H. Convict's Appeal May Extend His Stay In Prison

Philip C. Hobdy, whose descriptions of the hardships of prison life is a vivid warning to teenagers, is pursuing legal action that could lengthen his stay behind prison walls.

Hobdy, 27, former Benton Harbor resident, filed an appeal that he was not given sufficient opportunity for legal counsel before pleading guilty to a burglary charge in Berrien Circuit court in 1961.

His plea has been upheld by an appeals court ruling, but further hearings in the matter are pending and could extend his stay in prison, according to Assistant Berrien Prosecutor Harry Creager.

Hobdy is eligible for parole soon and his appeal means that he could still be awaiting a final decision while his parole time comes and goes. A final ruling could have far-reaching effect in Michigan and other states.

The "Letter to Teenagers," written by Hobdy was published in this newspaper Thursday. It had earlier won him a journalism award from the Michigan Corrections Association and has been republished for distribution to teenagers as a warning against acts that could lead to a prison term.

Hobdy was represented by Benton Harbor Atty. Thomas Adams on appeal of his 1961 conviction for burglary for which he received a sentence of seven to 15 years.

The appeals court ruling appeared as a victory for him. However, an application for rehearing of the decision is being prepared. Creager was assigned to prepare the application and indicated that it could mean a delay in Hobdy's release from prison, through no fault of the court or prosecutor's staff.

IMPORTANT RULING

The appeals court ruling reversed a procedure that has been used by criminal court judges for years. Hobdy had been advised of his right to an attorney, but the appellate court held that he did not expressly waive that right.

Hobdy had pleaded guilty in circuit court arraignment, implying a waiver of counsel. Court procedure has since changed to require an expressed waiver of counsel.

In presenting the appeal Adams gained one of the first criminal arraignment procedural reversals against Berrien Circuit Judge Karl F. Zick in his seven years on the bench. However, Judge Zick could ultimately be upheld.

Sodus Man Badly Hurt In Blaze

A Sodus township tenant farm worker was reported in fair condition at Berrien county general hospital this morning where he is recovering from second and third degree burns over 25 per cent of his body.

Sodus township volunteer firemen said the tenant worker, Jay Miles, 41, was attempting to light a kerosene stove about 7 o'clock last night when he apparently caught his own clothing afire.

The mishap took place at Miles' home, a tenant house on the Alvin Kolberg farm, about ¼ of a mile south of Naomii road on Pipestone road, according to firemen. They said three families were living in the house, but that no one was home when the fire started. Its cause is not known.

Benton township firemen, who assisted Sodus township at the fire, reported the owner of the home as E. Watkins.

Bound Over In Fatal Crash

CASSOPOLIS — Harry Carter, 20, of White Pigeon, was bound over to Cass county circuit court on a charge of negligent homicide following preliminary examination yesterday in Justice of the Peace Lee Taylor's court here.

The charge stems from a Sept. 17 crash on M-119 near Jones in which Carter's auto smashed head-on into another car, killing Mr. and Mrs. Lester Spry of Elkhart, occupants of the other car.

Carter was released on $100 bond continued from arraignment.

ALL AROUND OUR TOWNS

Fairplain Man Explains Lack Of SOS From Ship

A TWIN CITIES man who sailed on the sister ship of the Daniel J. Morrell has offered an explanation as to why the vessel, which broke up and sank in Lake Huron Tuesday, did not radio for help.

Lester Brown, 1821 Colfax avenue, Fairplain, said he sailed on the Frances House, a sister ship to the Morrell, during the 1918 season.

"The generators on those ships are with the engine (at the stern of the boat). When the ship broke up, there was no more (electric) current in the pilot house (in the bow) and they couldn't operate the radio."

"If they had had a battery-operated radio telephone in the pilot house, they could have called the Coast Guard and they (Coast Guardsmen) would have been out there in a few minutes to pick them up," Brown said.

Brown is a native of Baroda who went to sea in 1914. During the 1930s he and a brother operated a Ford automobile sales agency in Benton Harbor.

"Great Lakes freighters are under a tremendous strain when the water gets rough. First a wave lifts up the middle of the boat, letting both ends sag, and then it lifts up both ends and lets the middle sag. Those steel plates work around and shear the rivets and when you get too much of that, she comes apart," Brown said.

He related his experience aboard the Frances House in a Lake Superior storm in 1918. "The pilot house was pounding (rising and falling) so hard that I had to stand on my tip toes to cushion the shock, and yet the stern was going port to starboard (side to side). When we made port at Duluth, the crew scoped up over half-a-bushel of rivet heads out of the bottom of that boat that had been sheared by the plates working in that storm."

CLARK WHITE, 91 year old former Benton Harbor resident who now lives with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Swanson, at 215 Liberty avenue, Buchanan, is spending the winter at Haines City, Fla.

According to a clipping from the Haines City newspaper, Mr. Clark participated in the "Canned Goods" tournament recently to win first place in the shuffleboard contest. The tournament is one of the activities planned to entertain senior citizens.

When interviewed by a newspaper reporter, Clark said, "In Benton Harbor, Mich., where I resided for years, my friends called me Kingfish."

FESTIVAL EVENT

BH Merchants Want Sunday Kiddie Parade

The Benton Harbor Downtown association has voted to send a letter to Blossomtime Inc. recommending that the Blossomtime "Kiddies Parade" be held on the Sunday that opens the annual festival.

Association President Bill Rohring said the letter probably will be sent in January. It will recommend the change for the 1968 festival, not the 1967 festival during which the Kiddies' Parade will be in St. Joseph.

The Kiddies Parade, usually held on the Thursday preceding the Saturday of the main parade, has been switched to the Friday before the Grand Floral parade for the 1967 event. The Kiddies' Parade is alternated from year to year between St. Joseph and Benton Harbor.

The downtown association, whose membership is composed mostly of downtown retail merchants, feels the parade on Friday is detrimental to retail sales. Friday is described as the biggest day of the week.

Rohring noted that the downtown associations of both Benton Harbor and St. Joseph recently had sent letters of appreciation to Blossomtime Inc. for changing the dates of the festivals so that the main parade falls on the Saturday after instead of the Saturday before Mothers' Day.

The date change was made also in deference to the downtown associations who expressed feeling that the parade damaged Mothers' Day sales.

Also hired this week was Henry Lingle, 23-year-old former Marine, who replaced Lynn Rivette as a patrolman. Rivette resigned to devote full time to private business.

PROBLEMS OF A BIG FAMILY: "Babe", a registered English setter, has managed well, with a little help, for the family of 11 pups she whelped five weeks ago. All 11 are well and waxing fat, but they have to wait in line at dinnertime. So big was the litter, in fact, that one of the pups—the light-colored one at bottom center—was separated from the litter and raised on a bottle by Laurie Handy, daughter of Owner Graham Handy, Pipestone road, Sodus. The mother, Sky High Beau Babe, has had several litters previously in her seven years, but all her earlier families were a normal five to six pups. (Staff photo).

Four Hurt In Berrien Crashes

Two men were hospitalized and four others were hurt in four separate highway crashes reported to Berrien county sheriff's deputies Friday and early today.

Winsel Warford, 37, 106 Paras Hill drive, Hartford, was admitted to Memorial hospital in St. Joseph after he blacked out from an apparent heart attack about 10 a.m. Friday and ran his delivery truck into a ditch on the Stevensville-Baroda road in Baroda township.

Warford was listed in "satisfactory" condition early today at the hospital.

Donald LaRue Leach, 38, route 4, Coloma, was admitted to Watervliet Community hospital for treatment of head lacerations and observation after his auto was involved in a crash about 10 p.m. Friday with a car driven by Sammie Russell, 26, 4051 John G. road, Coloma. The crash occurred on Red Arrow highway 200 yards west of Hennessy road in Coloma township.

CONDITION "SATISFACTORY" — Leach was listed in "satisfactory" condition early today. The accident was still under investigation.

Larry D. Herzog, 19, route 1, Baroda, suffered a bruised leg about 6:45 a.m. today after he dodged a dog on Holden road in Baroda township and rolled his car in a ditch.

Watervliet Police Chief Victor Bianchi ticketed the driver of the Bailey car, George Washington Bailey, 30, also of the Wise farm, for improper passing.

The other driver was Jim W. Owens, 55, route 2, Elm street, Watervliet.

Fireman's Back Broken

Two Benton Harbor men were treated at Mercy hospital for minor burns and then released last night after a stove they were working on exploded, causing a house fire at 181 Lions street, Benton Harbor.

Taken to the hospital by ambulance were Elbert Rowling and Robert Little, both of whom live at 181 Lions street. Flames were shooting out the windows of the house when firemen arrived. They managed to put out the blaze, confining fire, smoke and water damage to one side of the house, according to fire reports.

The stove, an oil space heater, exploded about 9 p.m., according to reports.

FIGURE IN DISPUTE — Rowling was a figure in a furor at Benton Harbor city hall this week when a felony charge of assault with a deadly weapon against him was dismissed by Assistant Prosecutor Seymour Zaban. Zaban said he dismissed the charge because Benton Harbor police didn't produce Rowling in time for examination in Benton Harbor municipal court.

Rowling had been accused of injuring a man in a "flats" shooting incident last month.

FOOD FIRE — A pot of some food was burned beyond recognition on a stove in an apartment at 533 Green avenue, Benton Harbor, about noon yesterday. Benton Harbor firemen broke into the apartment there and carried the pot out. They also used fans to clear smoke from the building.

Boy Finds His Dog—Too Late

Lance Cortson has found his dog, Casper, with the help of this newspaper and some help from neighbors. But the 6-year-old Pomeranian, injured badly apparently by a car, had to be put out of its misery by a veterinarian.

Lance, the 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Cortson, 11000 road, Baroda, wrote last week to appeal for help in finding Casper, a blind pet who had strayed from home.

Yesterday his second letter told the sad story:

"Dear Sir,
"I would like to thank The News-Palladium and Herald Press and all of the people who tried to find my dog, Casper. I especially thank Mrs. (Edwin) Jakobs who found him. He was badly injured and Dr. (K. A.) Warner put him to sleep."

Lance's mother filled in the details. She said Mrs. Jakobs found the dog in the ditch along the road about a half mile from the Cortsons home and took the injured animal to her home and called the Cortsons. They took Casper to the vet who took X-rays which showed his spine had been severed and there was no hope of saving it.

Mrs. Cortson said she is not sure whether the family wants another dog just yet.

He Wins One, Loses Another

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley has won one and lost one in the dispute over county payment of fees to justices of the peace.

He won one Thursday when Ingham County Circuit Judge Marvin J. Salmon held the JP's aren't entitled to the 60-cent fee they used to get for each docket sheet they filed with their local county clerk.

Kelley had lost one—although he wasn't a party to the suit—in Benzie County last week, when Circuit Judge William R. Peterson ruled justices are still entitled to the money.

The attorney general's office said it planned to appeal Peterson's ruling.

Films scheduled at family movie night at the Maud Preston Palenske Memorial library, St. Joseph, Tuesday, Dec. 6, at 8 p.m. include "The Civil War," "Great Lakes—Highway of Commerce," and "Que Puerto Rico!"

"Civil War" highlights important military events of the Civil War and through the use of photographs of historic sites, animated maps, and contemporary illustrations, brings into focus the social, economic, and geographical factors which led to war and shaped its outcome. The color film on the Great Lakes shows the vital role of the lakes emphasizing deposits of natural resources such as pulpwood, grain, and coal.

Also in color, "Que Puerto Rico!" has been filmed in a new style conveying the mood, feeling and sight of Puerto Rico with humor and emotional impact. Island music and dance are integrated into an informative and poetic interpretation of the land and people of the small Caribbean island.

Total time for the three films will be approximately 54 minutes.

Also on the library agenda for the week of Dec. 5 is the story hour for preschoolers and through third graders at 10 a.m. Saturday followed by junior librarians meeting for fourth graders and up at 11 a.m.
